

The LCDR Laneya Littrell USNSCC Training Scholarship

Purpose:

To financially assist families with expenses related to enrollment or travel to any sanctioned NSCC or NLCC training.

Qualification:

This scholarship is available to cadets and leaguers who submit a personal statement about their career goals, what they would like to do after they graduate high school, and how the Sea Cadet program is helping them achieve these goals (max. 400 words).

Criteria:

A committee chaired by the Commanding Officer and other unit adult volunteers will select one winner based on the submitted personal statement and the applicant's personal achievements as a Sea Cadet or Leaguer.

About LCDR Laneya Littrell:

Born on August 1st 1943, Laneya Littrell grew up all over, but mainly in Modesto California in a family with six siblings. Like many Sea Cadet volunteers, she joined when her daughter, invited by her best friend, joined. She started to get involved by going to drills and became the admin officer. Over the years, she moved up to the rank of Lieutenant Commander and started running trainings in Northern California. LCDR Littrell ran Recruit Training for several years, only stopping when she lost her vision.

Her daughter, Megan, says "She loved the Sea Cadets, that was her baby. I joined when I was 12, got out when I was 22, and she kept going." LCDR Laneya Littrell touched the lives of many cadets and adults alike. "She was so happy that she got to meet them and help... she loved these kids and that was the best part of it."
